DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-20 are pending in this application.

Response to Arguments

2. Applicant's arguments with respect to claim 1, 8 and 15 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

3. Claims 1-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Claim 1 recites in preamble "a method for dynamically changing attributes in an embedded-SQL application" wherein the body of the claim recites "providing an option within a standard SQL statement for specifying one or more attributes of at least a declared cursor and processing the standard SQL statement to include the specific one or more attributes in at least the declared cursor." The body of the claim does not perform what is being set forth in the preamble. The body of the claim does not provide an automatic way to change the attributes in the embedded SQL applicant. These limitations do not provide the attributes of the declared cursor to be dynamically changed. These limitations provide an option within the standard SQL statement for the user to declared one or more attributes of the at least declared cursor and process the SQL statement including the specific one or more attributes in the at least the declared cursor. Applicants are advised to amend the claim to tie the preamble with the body to dynamically change attributes...

Claims 8 and 15 are system and a computer readable medium to perform the method of claim 1; therefore, they are rejected under the same reason as claim 1.

Claim 2-7, 9-14 and 16-20 are rejected under the reason as to their base claims.
